DURATION	4 hours
PREREQUISITES	HLTAID001 Provide cardiopulmonary resuscitation

WAZP Group, in partnership with a leading Australian Registered Training Organisation (RTO), offers this certified accredited course in South East Asia.

WHAT THIS COURSE DELIVERS

This course covers the following topics:

- Hazard identification
- Risk management
- Emergency equipment (fire extinguishers, fire blankets)
- Low voltage rescue procedures
- Low voltage rescue kit

Students must demonstrate a simulated rescue scenario using the rescue kit and fire blanket.

In accordance with Electricity Supply Industry (ESI) guidelines, we recommend that low voltage rescue training is refreshed every 12 months.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Qualified tradespeople, senior tradespeople and electrical engineers involved with operating low voltage electrical equipment.

UNITS OF COMPETENCY

UETTDRRF06B Perform rescue from a live LV panel

Students are involved in a range of practical activities throughout the training, including demonstration of a simulated rescue from a live low voltage panel, using a fire blanket to extinguish flames on an electric shock victim and administering CPR to the unconscious victim.

PREREQUISITES

A current CPR certificate (less than 12 months) must be provided in order for students to be awarded a Statement of Attainment.

Students who do not provide a current CPR certificate will be issued a Statement of Completion upon successful completion of the Low Voltage Rescue Course.

YOUR OPTIONS

We offer both CPR and nationally recognised Low Voltage Rescue training (UETTDRRF06B Perform rescue from a live LV panel). These courses can be run in succession or as standalone courses. Delivery of both courses in succession requires a full day.

Please contact us for more information and pricing on these options.
